Add Brokerage Account

Is this a single mutual fund account?

Some brokers keep track of your mutual funds by creating a separate account for each mutual fund you hold. These accounts

- Can contain exactly one mutual fund (and no other types of securities such as stocks or bonds).
- Do not have a cash balance (depositing money immediately purchases shares of the fund in that account).
- If you purchase another mutual fund, another account is created.

Are you setting up this type of account?
