LOCAL FINANCIAL ADVISOR TOM HINE LEADS GRASSROOTS EFFORT ON CAPITOL HILL
Speaks with Elected Officials about Preserving Americans’ Access to Affordable, Objective Financial Advice & Protecting Investors

Glastonbury, CT (May 18, 2015)—Tom Hine, an independent financial advisor affiliated with Commonwealth Financial Network® and CEO and Principal of Capital Wealth Management, LLC in Glastonbury, CT, recently helped lead a grassroots effort on Capitol Hill with the goal of preserving Americans’ access to affordable, objective financial advice and protecting investors. Hine met with members of Congress and their staffs as part of the Financial Services Institute (FSI) team on May 13, 2015.

“Speaking directly to a member of Congress and letting them know what hard-working Americans are going through every day is invaluable,” said Hine. “This was an incredible opportunity for us to educate them on what Americans need in terms of financial advice now and in the future and how what legislators and regulators are doing affects their lives.”

As part of the FSI grassroots team, Hine spoke to the members of Congress about these critical issues: the Department of Labor’s proposed fiduciary standard, the importance of preserving tax incentives that encourage retirement saving and preserving the independent contractor status of independent financial advisors.

The independent financial advisor members of FSI serve more than 15 million American households. Members of Congress with whom FSI members met serve on House and Senate committees important to the investment community including the Senate Banking Committee, Senate Health, Education, Labor, and Pensions Committee, House Financial Services Committee and House Education and Workforce Committee.

“We are very pleased to have Tom as an engaged member working on behalf of their clients,” said FSI President & CEO Dale Brown. “Conscientious members like him help bring real-life experience to our advocacy efforts. We plan to work closely with Tom as we advocate for independent financial advisors and the hard-working clients they serve.”
