

This is Google's cache of <http://online.wsj.com/article/SB10001424052702303983904579095693179433778.html>. It is a snapshot of the page as it appeared on Sep 30, 2013 07:46:14 GMT. The current page could have changed in the meantime. Learn more
 Tip: To quickly find your search term on this page, press Ctrl+F or ⌘-F (Mac) and use the find bar.

Text-only version

U.S. EDITION Friday, September 27, 2013 As of 6:48 PM EDT

$1 A WEEK for 12 WEEKS SUBSCRIBE NOW

Subscribe | Log In

Home World U.S. Business Tech Markets Market Data Your Money Opinion Life & Culture N.Y. Real Estate Management

WSJ.Money Stocks Funds/ETFs Bonds Family Finances Taxes Wealth Adviser Moneybeat Total Return

WEEKEND INVESTOR | September 27, 2013, 6:48 p.m. ET

A REIT That Could Bite Back

A target of regulators, nontraded REITs are drawing record assets.

Article

Stock Quotes

Comments

MORE IN PERSONAL FINANCE »

By LIZ MOYER

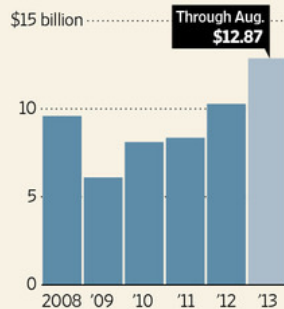

Investors are pouring money into nontraded real-estate investment trusts, despite repeated warnings from regulators.

The products, which often sport yields of more than 6%, have proved popular among income-hungry investors looking to diversify beyond bonds.

Like their exchange-listed cousins, nontraded REITs pool investor money into income-generating properties, such as office buildings, hotels or shopping malls, and pay dividends. As their name implies, they aren't publicly traded and can lock up investor money for a number of years. Critics contend that the products are hard to understand and that investors aren't being adequately warned about the risks.

Raking It In

Investments in nontraded real-estate investment trusts

Source: Robert A. Stanger & Co.
The Wall Street Journal

Total investments in nontraded REITs reached $12.9 billion as of Aug. 31 and are projected to surpass $18 billion by year-end, well more than the record $11.5 billion in 2007, according to a study released this month by the Investment Program Association, a trade group, and Robert A. Stanger & Co., an investment bank in Shrewsbury, N.J., that specializes in real-estate securities.

In August alone, $2.2 billion flowed into the products, the highest monthly total on record and an 83% increase over the same month a year ago.

Critics say the high costs associated with nontraded REITs—which have fees as high as 15%, much of that in commissions—has raised potential conflicts of interest between advisers who sell the investments and their clients.

THE NEW PORTFOLIO TOOL ON WSJ.COM:
THE ULTIMATE INVESTMENT TRACKER
AVAILABLE EXCLUSIVELY FOR SUBSCRIBERS

LEARN MORE

provided by LikeAssets

Available to WSJ.com Subscribers

China Tests Looser Grip on Economy

Tales From a White-Collar Prison Sentence

The products have drawn criticism for other issues. They offer limited information on daily pricing and can make it difficult for investors to redeem their money. Cliff Caplan, an independent adviser at Neponset Valley Financial Partners in Norwood, Mass., who has recently sold nontraded REITs to some of his clients, says investors have to be comfortable with a time commitment of at least six years.

"If there's any doubt, just don't do it," he says.

The Financial Industry Regulatory Authority has posted a warning on its website about the risks of nontraded REITs, while the Securities and Exchange Commission has said it wants nontraded REITs to provide more information about how shares are valued.

Massachusetts Secretary of the Commonwealth William Galvin, the state's securities regulator, earlier this year subpoenaed 15 large brokerage firms about their sales of nontraditional products, including nontraded REITs.

Typically sold by financial advisers, the target audience is usually people close to retirement who are worried about their nest eggs, say lawyers who represent investors in securities arbitrations.

"I think they are legitimate products for people who want 2% to 4% of their portfolio in them," says Andrew Stoltmann, a Chicago lawyer. "But as a sector bet, it's very narrow. It's impossible to justify 10% to 30%."

Some Massachusetts advisory firms violated the state's 10% limit on REIT-investment portfolio concentrations, Mr. Galvin said, after investigating their sales of nontraded REITs. In six separate settlements this year, the firms collectively returned $21.7 million to investors.

After filing a complaint in 2011, Finra last year ordered David Lerner Associates in Syosset, N.Y., to pay $12 million in restitution to customers who bought $2 billion in nontraded REITs. Finra alleged the firm used "unfair practices" to sell the securities, which were invested mostly in extended-stay hotels.

Finra accused the firm of targeting unsophisticated investors and the elderly, selling $442 million of nontraded REITs without performing adequate suitability reviews.

"The regulatory issues we faced in 2011 have been settled and are behind us," Lerner said in a statement.

None of this has seems to have damped investor appetite. Some of the new investment is coming from investors in older nontraded REITs that have listed on an exchange or merged with another entity and returned investors' initial stake. Many investors are taking their proceeds and plowing it back into new nontraded REITs, says Kevin Gannon, a managing director at Stanger.

There have been five nontraded REITs so far this year that returned $12 billion to investors and another three representing $8 billion are slated to close by the end of the year, according to the report by IPA and Stanger.

American Realty Capital Properties ARCP -2.17% in New York raised $5.8 billion through August in new and existing deals, according to the report. Cole Real Estate Investments COLE +0.45% in Phoenix raised $1.8 billion, and Griffin Capital in El Segundo, Calif., raised $1.4 billion.

While LPL Financial and rival Ameriprise Financial AMP +0.07% have been big sellers of nontraded REITs, other firms are jumping in.

Earlier this year, Bank of America BAC +0.14% Merrill Lynch began offering brokerage clients a nontraded REIT called Jones Lang LaSalle Income Property Trust, making it the first big brokerage to enter the sector. Offered exclusively through Merrill, the REIT sold $124 million through August. Other firms are being signed on to sell the product starting later this year. A Bank of America spokesman declined to comment.

Questions Swirl After Death of Texas Financier

Hospitals Give Health Law Real-World Test

Don't Miss

[?]

Rugged Luxury Watches With a High-Flying Story

Five Things Your Personal Trainer Won't Tell You

Grilling Up Feral Pig in Oregon

Popular Now

What's This?

1 To Fix Education, Look to the Past

2 Government Heads Toward Shutdown

3 Opinion: ObamaCare Arrives

4 What Does New Health Law Mean for Me?

5 Giant Leaps for Space Firms Orbital, SpaceX

Show 5 More

Recent Columns

- Private Equity: It's Back
- The Best Company Retirement Plans
- The Quest for a Mortgage

Consumer Interest Rates

Savings		Mortgage		Auto
Loan Types	Rate	Last Week	Chart
1 yr CD	0.71%
6 month CD	0.46%
3 month CD	0.21%
$10K MMA	0.45%
MMA	0.45%

Find rates:

Some of the new nontraded REITs offer more disclosure on daily pricing and offer more redemption opportunities and lower costs but the industry is still evolving, says Adam Markman, a managing director at real-estate-research firm Green Street Advisors in Newport Beach, Calif. "This is an inferior vehicle when you compare it to publicly traded REITs," he says.

Write to Liz Moyer at liz.moyer@dowjones.com

A version of this article appeared September 28, 2013, on page B9 in the U.S. edition of The Wall Street Journal, with the headline: Flocking to Nontraded REITs.

JOIN THE DISCUSSION

MORE IN Personal Finance »

THE NEW PORTFOLIO TOOL ON WSJ.COM:
THE ULTIMATE INVESTMENT TRACKER
AVAILABLE EXCLUSIVELY FOR SUBSCRIBERS

LEARN MORE
provided by LikeAssets

More in Personal Finance

- GE Shares Poised to Take Off
- When Money Meets Millennial Marriage
- A Great Annuity Called Social Security
- Charitable Giving From Your IRA
- What You Need to Know About the Affordable Care Act

Content from our Sponsors [?]

THE FISCAL TIMES
10 Insanely Overpaid Public Employees

GRANDPARENTS.COM
9 Surprising Celebs Who Served in the Military

AARP.ORG
Another Senator Heads for the Exit

Don't Miss

Monster Shrimp Invade U.S. Coastal Waters

Model Behavior Storms Social Media

Miley Cyrus Breaks Silence Over VMA Performance

Top B-School Talent Plucked Before Class Starts

You Might Like

- What's the worst time to brush your teeth?
- Advisers Get More Technical Post-2008
- Hulbert on Investing: Don't Be Fooled—This Is No Stock Picker's Market
- Private equity makes comeback, as funds take advantage of low interest rates
- Fund Managers Snap Up Westports Malaysia IPO Shares - MoneyBeat - WSJ

Content from our Sponsors

- What's this?
- Rich in America Part 1: What Does It Mean to Be Wealthy? \(Millionaire Club\)
- How Will You Afford Health Care in Retirement? We Have Ideas \(BlackRock\)
- 4 Stupid Investment Mistakes Nearly Everyone Makes \(etrade.com\)
- 10 Ways to Make Your First Million \(Investopedia\)
- 5 Ways to Spot Skin Cancer \(A Bullseye View\)

Editors' Picks

Videogame Champ, Past His Prime At 28, Grooms Next Screen Jocks

Driverless Cars for the Road Ahead

Syria's War, on YouTube

Book Review: The Goliath of Nonfiction

Ranchers Play a High-Steaks Game for All the Marbling

Subscribe / Login

Back to Top

Customer Service

- Customer Center
- New! Live Help
- Contact Us
- WSJ Weekend
- Contact Directory
- Corrections

Policy

- Privacy Policy
- Data Policy
- Copyright Policy
- Subscriber Agreement & Terms of Use
- Your Ad Choices

Advertise

- Advertise
- Place a Classified Ad
- Sell Your Home
- Sell Your Business
- Commercial Real Estate Ads
- Recruitment & Career Ads
- Franchising
- Advertise Locally

Tools & Features

- Apps
- Newsletters and Alerts
- Graphics & Photos
- Columns
- Topics
- Guides
- Portfolio
- Old Portfolio

More

- Register for Free
- Reprints
- Content Partnerships
- Conferences
- SafeHouse
- Mobile Site
- Price & Volume
- Keyword & Symbol
- News Archive

Jobs at WSJ

Copyright ©2013 Dow Jones & Company, Inc. All Rights Reserved.